

Turkey Earthquake 2011

Situation Overview:

On October 23, 2011, a 7.2 magnitude earthquake struck Eastern Turkey, killing hundreds, injuring thousands, and causing hundreds of buildings to collapse or become structurally unsound. Thousands of people have no choice but to live outside and rely on aid as they can not return to their damaged homes due to threat of collapsing as hundreds of aftershocks have continued in the following days and are expected to continue in the coming weeks.

Hidaya's Response:

Hidaya Foundation is collecting funds to aid families who have lost their homes and belongings. One of our team members from Hidaya's US headquarters is present in Turkey and will be leading our relief efforts, inshallah.
